DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 10-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP-73023405.

Art Unit: 1764

The JP reference discloses an oligomerization process of an alphaolefinic feedstock (e.g., 1-decene) to produce polyalphaolefins by reacting the feedstock with a boro trifluoride catalyst in the presence of co-catalyst of alcohol and carboxylic acid (e.g., acetic acid). The catalyst is used in a catalytic amount of about 13 weight percent of the 1-olefin. The process is operated a temperature from 70 to 100⁰ C. (See abstract)

The JP reference does not specifically disclose the amount of carboxylic acid in the range of from 0.08-2 or 0.16 to 0.35 mole % based on the alpha-olefin. However, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the process of the JP reference by using the claimed amount of carboxylic acid because one of skill in the art would use any amount of carboxylic acid (including the claimed amount) to result in a catalyst complex with the acid and it would be expected that any amount of carboxylic acid would give similar results in the process of the JP process.

Response to Arguments

The argument that the expression “consisting essentially of” in lines 6 and 9 would exclude the use of solvent in the claimed process is noted. However, the argument is not persuasive because the expression only limits the “catalyst” consisting essentially of boro-trifluoride and an alcohol promoter and only limits the “modifier” consisting essentially of carboxylic acid. The expression does not exclude solvent from the claimed process because of the word “comprises” in line 2 of claim 1.

Art Unit: 1764

The argument that the process of the JP reference is not a solvent-free system as claimed is noted. However, the argument is not persuasive the JP reference discloses that the oligomerization process can be operated without solvent. (See examples)

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
